

What is AEPA?

The Association of Educational Purchasing Agencies (AEPA) is a multi-state non-profit organization whose member agencies share the common goal of saving public organizations money. They are a true “cooperative” who serves to leverage purchasing power to benefit all organizations.

Frequently Asked Questions

Who is eligible to purchase off AEPA Contracts?

AEPA's primary customer-base is K-12 schools, but many member agencies extend their contracts to higher education, municipalities, and non-profit organizations. This differs slightly in each state, based on the charters of the member agencies. Check with your local member agency for more details.

How do I know if AEPA meets my local and state purchasing regulations?

AEPA has put safeguards in place to assist with this. Each member agency advertises the bids in their state based on their local bidding requirements. Each contract is awarded by the member agency in your state, not by AEPA. This provides local control and support.

What can be purchased through AEPA?

AEPA adds new bid categories annually. They offer a wide range of products including custodial supplies, roofing, parent notification systems, LED Lighting and athletic surfaces. The most current list of vendors can be found on the Approved Vendors page of their website.

Who can I contact for assistance on becoming a member?

The member agency representing your state can help you. Their information is on the AEPA website under Find Your State Agency. We have also listed each state and their member agency on the back side of this page.
